

Trinity Parish Presents Keys To Dr. Stetson

Hundreds Outside Churchyard See Door Unlocked by New Rector; Ceremony Lasts 15 Minutes Reception in Vestry Room

Bishop Manning's Successor Is Twelfth Leader Since Founding in 1697

The Rev. Caleb Rockford Stetson, until recently rector of St. Mark's church, Washington, yesterday received the keys to Trinity Church and thus became its twelfth rector. The ceremony took place at the church. Trinity parish's method of inducting a new rector is distinct from that of any other Protestant Episcopal Church in America. The practice of turning over the keys to the new incumbent has been followed since the founding of the historic old church in 1697 by charter of the King of England.

The ceremony required only fifteen minutes. The sextons, vestrymen, clergy, senior warden and rector first assembled in the vestry room at the rear of the church. They passed in procession down the south aisle of the edifice and out into the churchyard, where hundreds of people peered through the rail fence from the sidewalks. The procession then re-entered the church at the main door facing on Broadway and Wall Street, pausing for a few minutes at the altar to receive the keys and unlock the church.

Key Presented to Rector
The senior warden, Richard Deland, president of the National Park Bank, placed Dr. Stetson's right hand on the keys and the senior warden, who in turn, delivered them to Dr. Stetson, saying:

"I hereby deliver to you the keys of this church and of St. Paul's Chapel, St. Luke's Chapel, the Chapel of the Intercession, St. Chrysostom's Chapel, St. Augustine's Chapel and the Chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion, and by virtue thereof I induct you into the office of rector of Trinity Church in the City of New York, and into the pastoral, actual and corporal possession of the rectorship with all its fruits, profits, members and appurtenances."

The rector answered: "I accept the keys and with them the responsibilities, profits and appurtenances of the rectorship, and by the grace of God I will faithfully perform the duties of this office, and may I please God to continue in it."

Vestry Room Reception

The procession then filed down the central aisle to the vestry room, where Dr. Stetson pronounced the benediction and received all consecration informally. The Rev. William T. Manning, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, was among those present to congratulate the new rector. Other present participants were the Revs. William Montague Kerr, William H. Bellinger, Milo H. Gates, Edward H. Sedgwick, Edmund Banks Smith, C. Nelson Miller, J. Wilson Sullivan, Thomas P. McCombs and Stuyvesant Fish, senior warden, and the following members of the vestry: Nicholas F. Palmer, Edward Nash, Henry C. Swords, William H. Parsons, George F. C. Smith, Ambrose S. Murray Jr., Justice Vernon M. Davis, Egerton L. Winthrop Jr., Pell W. Foster, John B. Lawrence, John Arthur W. Watson, C. G. Sims, Arthur, Samuel A. Tucker, Frederick H. Moore and John C. Livingston.

Dr. Stetson was chosen to succeed Bishop Manning as rector of Trinity at the election following the latter's elevation to the headship of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York. Dr. Stetson was born in Boston in 1884, was graduated from Harvard in 1907, studied medicine at Johns Hopkins University and was graduated from the General Theological Seminary in 1910. He was ordained for the ministry the same year in the Washington church by the late Right Rev. Henry Satterlee, then Bishop of Washington.

Thieves Get Silver Service Given by Queen Mary

Long Beach Home of Baroness d'Estrellis Included in 21 Unreported Robberies

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
LONG BEACH, L. I., Dec. 21.—Nassau County authorities learned to-day of robberies perpetrated in twenty-one homes in Long Beach, which, it is said, were not reported to the Sheriff of the county. This failure on the part of the local police is expected to result in an investigation by the District Attorney. The largest of the robberies was in the home of Baroness J. d'Estrellis, on Bay Boulevard. Jewelry, tapestries and other articles, including a silver service, the gift of Queen Mary of England to the baroness, and all valued at $10,000, were taken.

Baroness d'Estrellis is spending the winter at her home at 9 Rue de la Paix, Paris. When her secretary, G. Blouine, of 13 West Fifty-fifth street, came to Long Beach yesterday he noticed one of the screens on the house broken. Investigation showed that a rear door was open and a key was in the lock. He notified the county authorities.

Charles W. Hanson, fingerprint expert of Nassau County, came to Long Beach to investigate the report. He said to-day that he had found that the robbery in the baroness's summer home was but one of twenty-one of which the county authorities had knowledge. He had never received a report from the local police. He said that he would ask the District Attorney to investigate this failure.

Death Threat Received By Oklahoma Minister

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 21.—The Rev. Charles C. Wieth, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ardmore, a member of the delegation that went to Oklahoma City to tell Governor Robert C. Ardmore was in the grip of lawlessness, received a threat to-day that he would be killed unless he left town.

The threat was one of a long series of events which have followed the killing last Thursday night of three men at Wilson, near here. So far no one has been specifically charged with the murder of the three men, John Smith and C. G. Sims, Ardmore policemen, although thirteen men are charged with the murder of Joe Carroll, who is said to have been slain by a band of masked riders. Eight men are in jail and others having been released on bail.

The note of warning sent to the preacher is regarded here as the first intimation of the lawless element of its determination to resist all efforts to clean up the city and county. No one familiar with the situation doubts that attempts will be made to carry out the threat.

Cardinal de Cabrieres, Of France, Dead at 91

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Cardinal Francis Maria Roverie de Cabrieres, Bishop of Montpellier, France, is dead, according to announcement made here to-day. He had recently celebrated his ninety-first birthday.

Cardinal Cabrieres was created a Cardinal in 1911, at a secret consistory held on November 27 of that year. Archbishop Parley, of New York, and Archbishop O'Connell, of Boston, were raised to the cardinalate at the same time.

The Diocese of Montpellier, over which Cardinal Cabrieres presided, is one of the oldest in France. The Bishops of Montpellier, in a brief issued on June 16, 1877, were authorized to call themselves Bishops of Montpellier, Beziers, Agde, Lodève and Saint-Pons. This was done in order to perpetuate the names of the different dioceses united in the present diocese of Montpellier.

Cardinal Cabrieres was elected to the Legion of Honor thirty years ago, but through a misunderstanding he did not receive that distinction until September of this year.

Foch Greeted by Immense Crowds On Reaching Paris

Generalissimo Says to Ambassador Herrick as He Steps From Train, "You See They Didn't Kill Me"

Special Cable Dispatch to The Tribune
PARIS, Dec. 21.—Marshal Foch arrived home to-day from his triumphant tour of America as guest of the American Legion and was greeted by immense crowds of men and women shouting a welcome and throwing flowers. Stepping off the train at 1 p. m., the generalissimo said to Ambassador Herrick, who was there to meet him:

"You see, they didn't kill me." The marshal went on to say that his trip had been more than satisfying. "I never forgot the extremely enthusiastic welcome of America," he said. Rene Viviani, former Premier and member of the French delegation at the Washington conference, who arrived with Marshal Foch, said concerning the conference:

"France has gained a decided diplomatic success at Washington. All the important questions have been decided satisfactorily."

Viviani considers the discussion of submarines, gas and airplanes premature, because no positive results can be obtained concerning these until all the nations interested are represented at the conference.

"We cannot agree to give up gas or limit airplanes unless Germany and other European countries likewise enter into such an agreement," said Viviani. Referring to the submarine, he said that France, like England, needs important submarine tonnage for the protection of her colonies.

The Foreign Office said to-day that all questions between France and England could be arranged satisfactorily except that of submarines. France is willing to make concessions to bring about an amicable agreement with England, but will hold out definitely for a larger submarine tonnage, which she feels she must have in abundance because it is the arm of a weaker power at sea.

Alleged Forger Shoots Self

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Frank Spurr, who also was known under the alias Frank Martin, shot and probably fatally wounded himself to-day in his home here when detectives arrived to arrest him on a charge of forgery. Martin is wanted in Pittsfield, Mass., to face trial for forging a $500 check. Martin first hid in a closet. When the detectives entered the house he shot himself. He is in Thrall Hospital.

Spurr recently was released on bail in connection with the forged charge. It is said that it was the name of his bondsman that Spurr is alleged to have forged. Following his release, he returned at once to Middletown, where he lives with his wife and two children.

Hulbert Takes His Oath as Board of Aldermen President

Murray Hulbert, President-elect of the Board of Aldermen, took the oath of office yesterday before Justice Robert F. Wagner, of the Supreme Court. Deputy Commissioner Michael Cosgrove, of the Dock Department, accompanied Mr. Hulbert.

Mr. Hulbert said that he would devote the rest of the week to closing up the affairs of the Dock Department and have everything in shape for John H. Delaney, his successor.

Bootleggers Called Slayers by Court, Prohibition a Joke

Magistrate Says if Dry Leaders Saw Misery Bad Whisky Caused They Would Favor Light Wines

Magistrate H. H. Dale, formerly a member of Congress, yesterday in Fifth Avenue Court, Brooklyn, characterized bootleggers as murderers, and asserted that the Anti-Saloon League members would become advocates of light wines and beer if they could sit for a few days on a magistrate's bench.

His remarks were inspired by the case of Frank Hollingham, 32 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, whom he sentenced to fifteen days in the workhouse, in order that he might obtain further treatment supplementing one week under doctors' care at Kings County Hospital for wood alcohol poisoning. Hollingham was very weak when he appeared before the court.

"These murderers," said the court, "are handing out poison that puts strong and healthy men out of business. A poor sailor boy was killed last week because some bootlegger represented poison as whisky at a Sands Street place. Prohibition is a joke. The most unusual things have been done by men and women since the advent of prohibition."

The Anti-Saloon League ought to form committees and sub-committees and sit in the magistrates' courts each day to find out what prohibition is doing. It is ruining the young men of this town. I predicted it would while I was in Congress."

After leaving the bench the magistrate said that he believed a few days in magistrates' courts would convert the Anti-Saloon League members to a light wine and beer advocacy.

Twenty-five cases of 100-proof Bourbon, bottled in bond, were sold at auction yesterday, by United States Marshal James M. Power, of Brooklyn, by order of the Federal District Court. The whisky was purchased by the Little Sisters of the Poor for use in their home for the aged and by St. Malachi's Home, in East New York. The bidding started at $1 a bottle and was closed at $1.40.

A "speak-easy" was said to have been found in the office building at 198 Broadway. Albert Gehring, forty-eight years old, who ran a cigar stand in the building, was held in $1,000 bail for examination Friday on the charge of possessing liquor. Detective John Bragan, who uncovered the alleged "speak-easy," testified that Gehring had sold him a drink of whisky for 75 cents. The man had then found and seized forty-three bottles of liquor in the place.

Louis Vane, thirty-eight years old, of 100 Haven Avenue, Charles Schermer, thirty, 333 West Fifty-eighth Street, a cashier, and Charles Jones, 985 Eighth Avenue, manager, all employees of Reisenweber's restaurant, were arrested last night by Federal agents who charged that a bottle of whisky had been purchased in the place by one of their number.

Benjamin Ueber, in charge of the restaurant, made a statement following the arrests in which he declared no liquor had been sold with his knowledge and that orders were strictly enforced against such sale.

The Federal agents declared they had used marked money in making the purchase and that this money had been found on the man from whom the liquor was bought.

32 Christmas Paroles At Sing Sing: 81 in Jersey

OSISING, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Thirty-two prisoners, including James Welch, Benjamin Ueber, in charge of the restaurant, were ordered released by the State Board of Pardons, which met to-day at the prison.

Welch is a Queens County offender. He has been for many years employed in the prison jobbing shop. John W. Farwell, a Manhattan prisoner, who has served eleven months for larceny, was released yesterday after recovering from an attack of diphtheria.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 21.—Of 325 applications for clemency eighty-one paroles were announced to-day by the Court of Pardons. Only fifty-three of this number, however, were released to-day. The other twenty-eight will go free at the expiration of their minimum terms.

Forty of the paroles were granted to inmates of the state prison and thirteen to prisoners in the Essex and Hudson penitentiaries. Included in the lists were five who were serving terms for murder.

Ford May Dispatch Trains by Wireless

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 21.—Wireless may soon be adopted by Henry Ford for dispatching trains on his Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, it was learned to-day. Equipment for a steel tower to be erected on the roof of the local freight station of the railroad arrived here last night, and the erection will be started soon. As soon as it is set up the wireless apparatus will be installed. This will make three wireless stations on the D. T. & I. Other stations are expected to be installed soon.

Final Steps Taken Here to End Sugar Trust Litigation

Consent of American Refining Co. Obtained; Decree Is Being Submitted to Other Concerns Named

Colonel William Hayward, United States Attorney, yesterday received from Washington a consent decree which is expected to result soon in the dismissal of the suit brought by the Federal government in 1910 against the so-called sugar trust. This decree was approved by the Attorney General and counsel for the principal defendant, the American Sugar Refining Company, Tuesday, and has been sent here for the approval of the other defendants. Slight modifications may be necessary before unanimous consent can be obtained to the settlement.

In the decree the defendants admit that prior to 1910 they were engaged in a conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and consent to a permanent injunction restraining them from continuing the combination as it existed at the time the suit was brought. The government concedes that conditions in the industry have changed since that time.

At Colonel Hayward's office it was said that evidence was at hand showing that whereas in 1910 the American Sugar Refining Company had controlled 72 per cent of the business, to-day that figure had been reduced by the sale of holdings in other corporations to 24 per cent. The defendants are to pay the court costs.

The suit against the sugar combine was one of the four most important equity actions brought under the Sherman law before the war, ranking with the steel case and the injunction proceedings which resulted in the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company and the so-called tobacco trust. The case never came to trial, as the courts here refused to hear argument until the Supreme Court passed on the three other injunctions, and further delay was caused by the war.

Colonel Hayward has already begun to get in touch with the other defendants in the suit, chief among whom are the National Great Western, Michigan, Utah-Idaho, Amalgamated, Alameda, Western Refining and Spreckels sugar companies.

14 Hurt in Crash on Bridge

New Haven Passenger Train Hits Freight Engine
WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 21.—Fourteen persons were injured, none seriously, when passenger train 1033 on the air line division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was in collision with a freight locomotive at Columbia Junction to-day.

The accident occurred on a bridge over the Willimantic River, when the passenger train rounded a curve and overtook the freight locomotive, which was moving in the same direction. None of the cars was derailed, but the locomotive of the passenger train was badly damaged.

The coaches were hauled back to this city and the injured were attended by two physicians. Several had teeth knocked out and others suffered bruises and lacerations.

Senate Social Bloc To Aid Newberry, Charged by Kenyon

Iowan Insists Entire Election of Michigan Man Was Tainted; Reed Assails Both Candidates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Use of social influence to bring about a vote favorable to Truman H. Newberry in the Michigan Senatorial election contest of 1918 was charged in the Senate to-day by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, in an extended discussion of the contest, during which he declared that the entire election in which Mr. Newberry was chosen over Henry Ford, the Democratic candidate, was "tainted."

The Iowa Senator, who is one of the leaders of the agricultural bloc, declared that of all blocs the "social bloc" was the most powerful.

"The social lobby," he asserted, "has been active in this case—more active than in most matters—and the social lobby is effective."

Senator Kenyon said he was convinced that the Senate, when it voted on the election contest early next month, would declare Senator Newberry elected, but he added, the vote "will not be the last of the Newberry case."

"The day is coming," he continued, "when it will be heard in another court—the court of the great American people. It will be a trial that will be worth while, because the American people, even from the gallery, the question, will decide right. They will know the record, even if many Senators do not."

The Iowa Senator said he could understand how Senators would vote for retention by Mr. Newberry of the Michigan seat on the ground of friendship, but could not see how votes would be cast to seat Mr. Newberry on the theory that he had no knowledge of his campaign expenditures.

"The cold fact is," he continued, "that this seat in the Senate was bought, and the price was not a penny less than $250,000. And I want to add that if this sale of a seat is allowed to stand the rule of the people is gone, and gone beyond recall."

During Mr. Kenyon's attack on the Newberry campaign, loud applause came from one of the public galleries. Two husky doorkeepers rushed to the scene and a woman visitor was quickly removed from the gallery.

Senator Reed and Senator Borah frequently interrupted Mr. Kenyon's discussion. Mr. Reed once expressing the opinion that the Senate should question "the mental competency of a man to occupy a seat in this body who does not know that such large sums of money were spent in his behalf."

Speaking a moment later with respect to Mr. Ford, Senator Reed declared that if the Detroit manufacturer "were running on mental equipment, his nomination would not have been thought of by a second-rate idiot."

Mrs. Peabody, Wed Less Than Year, Gets Divorce

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
RENO, Nev., Dec. 21.—Declaring that her husband boasted of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Vernon Marguerite Peabody was given a divorce to-day from Rushion B. Peabody, to whom she was married in New York on January 1, 1920, after a six weeks' courtship.

Mrs. Peabody, who was the widow of C. P. Stiens, millionaire contractor and builder of the Chinese-Siberian Railroad, told the court in her complaint that her husband manifested a violent dislike for her three children by her former marriage, and also for her mother. After their marriage the complaint alleges, they took up their abode in Mrs. Peabody's apartment, and Peabody at once objected to the presence of any of her former husband's photographs. Once, it was alleged, he smashed a photograph of one of his own children, believing it to be that of his wife's child.

It was charged that Peabody indulged to excess in intoxicating liquor and had insisted upon his wife drinking as much as he did, and also upon her smoking cigarettes. She asserted that he told improper stories in the presence of others which humiliated her and embarrassed her by tales of former conquests of the heart.

Senate Social Bloc To Aid Newberry, Charged by Kenyon

Iowan Insists Entire Election of Michigan Man Was Tainted; Reed Assails Both Candidates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Use of social influence to bring about a vote favorable to Truman H. Newberry in the Michigan Senatorial election contest of 1918 was charged in the Senate to-day by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, in an extended discussion of the contest, during which he declared that the entire election in which Mr. Newberry was chosen over Henry Ford, the Democratic candidate, was "tainted."

The Iowa Senator, who is one of the leaders of the agricultural bloc, declared that of all blocs the "social bloc" was the most powerful.

"The social lobby," he asserted, "has been active in this case—more active than in most matters—and the social lobby is effective."

Senator Kenyon said he was convinced that the Senate, when it voted on the election contest early next month, would declare Senator Newberry elected, but he added, the vote "will not be the last of the Newberry case."

"The day is coming," he continued, "when it will be heard in another court—the court of the great American people. It will be a trial that will be worth while, because the American people, even from the gallery, the question, will decide right. They will know the record, even if many Senators do not."

The Iowa Senator said he could understand how Senators would vote for retention by Mr. Newberry of the Michigan seat on the ground of friendship, but could not see how votes would be cast to seat Mr. Newberry on the theory that he had no knowledge of his campaign expenditures.

"The cold fact is," he continued, "that this seat in the Senate was bought, and the price was not a penny less than $250,000. And I want to add that if this sale of a seat is allowed to stand the rule of the people is gone, and gone beyond recall."

During Mr. Kenyon's attack on the Newberry campaign, loud applause came from one of the public galleries. Two husky doorkeepers rushed to the scene and a woman visitor was quickly removed from the gallery.

Senator Reed and Senator Borah frequently interrupted Mr. Kenyon's discussion. Mr. Reed once expressing the opinion that the Senate should question "the mental competency of a man to occupy a seat in this body who does not know that such large sums of money were spent in his behalf."

Speaking a moment later with respect to Mr. Ford, Senator Reed declared that if the Detroit manufacturer "were running on mental equipment, his nomination would not have been thought of by a second-rate idiot."

Mrs. Peabody, Wed Less Than Year, Gets Divorce

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
RENO, Nev., Dec. 21.—Declaring that her husband boasted of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Vernon Marguerite Peabody was given a divorce to-day from Rushion B. Peabody, to whom she was married in New York on January 1, 1920, after a six weeks' courtship.

Mrs. Peabody, who was the widow of C. P. Stiens, millionaire contractor and builder of the Chinese-Siberian Railroad, told the court in her complaint that her husband manifested a violent dislike for her three children by her former marriage, and also for her mother. After their marriage the complaint alleges, they took up their abode in Mrs. Peabody's apartment, and Peabody at once objected to the presence of any of her former husband's photographs. Once, it was alleged, he smashed a photograph of one of his own children, believing it to be that of his wife's child.

It was charged that Peabody indulged to excess in intoxicating liquor and had insisted upon his wife drinking as much as he did, and also upon her smoking cigarettes. She asserted that he told improper stories in the presence of others which humiliated her and embarrassed her by tales of former conquests of the heart.

14 Hurt in Crash on Bridge

New Haven Passenger Train Hits Freight Engine
WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 21.—Fourteen persons were injured, none seriously, when passenger train 1033 on the air line division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was in collision with a freight locomotive at Columbia Junction to-day.

The accident occurred on a bridge over the Willimantic River, when the passenger train rounded a curve and overtook the freight locomotive, which was moving in the same direction. None of the cars was derailed, but the locomotive of the passenger train was badly damaged.

The coaches were hauled back to this city and the injured were attended by two physicians. Several had teeth knocked out and others suffered bruises and lacerations.

Senate Social Bloc To Aid Newberry, Charged by Kenyon

Iowan Insists Entire Election of Michigan Man Was Tainted; Reed Assails Both Candidates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Use of social influence to bring about a vote favorable to Truman H. Newberry in the Michigan Senatorial election contest of 1918 was charged in the Senate to-day by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, in an extended discussion of the contest, during which he declared that the entire election in which Mr. Newberry was chosen over Henry Ford, the Democratic candidate, was "tainted."

The Iowa Senator, who is one of the leaders of the agricultural bloc, declared that of all blocs the "social bloc" was the most powerful.

"The social lobby," he asserted, "has been active in this case—more active than in most matters—and the social lobby is effective."

Senator Kenyon said he was convinced that the Senate, when it voted on the election contest early next month, would declare Senator Newberry elected, but he added, the vote "will not be the last of the Newberry case."

"The day is coming," he continued, "when it will be heard in another court—the court of the great American people. It will be a trial that will be worth while, because the American people, even from the gallery, the question, will decide right. They will know the record, even if many Senators do not."

The Iowa Senator said he could understand how Senators would vote for retention by Mr. Newberry of the Michigan seat on the ground of friendship, but could not see how votes would be cast to seat Mr. Newberry on the theory that he had no knowledge of his campaign expenditures.

"The cold fact is," he continued, "that this seat in the Senate was bought, and the price was not a penny less than $250,000. And I want to add that if this sale of a seat is allowed to stand the rule of the people is gone, and gone beyond recall."

During Mr. Kenyon's attack on the Newberry campaign, loud applause came from one of the public galleries. Two husky doorkeepers rushed to the scene and a woman visitor was quickly removed from the gallery.

Senator Reed and Senator Borah frequently interrupted Mr. Kenyon's discussion. Mr. Reed once expressing the opinion that the Senate should question "the mental competency of a man to occupy a seat in this body who does not know that such large sums of money were spent in his behalf."

Speaking a moment later with respect to Mr. Ford, Senator Reed declared that if the Detroit manufacturer "were running on mental equipment, his nomination would not have been thought of by a second-rate idiot."

Mrs. Peabody, Wed Less Than Year, Gets Divorce

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
RENO, Nev., Dec. 21.—Declaring that her husband boasted of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Vernon Marguerite Peabody was given a divorce to-day from Rushion B. Peabody, to whom she was married in New York on January 1, 1920, after a six weeks' courtship.

Mrs. Peabody, who was the widow of C. P. Stiens, millionaire contractor and builder of the Chinese-Siberian Railroad, told the court in her complaint that her husband manifested a violent dislike for her three children by her former marriage, and also for her mother. After their marriage the complaint alleges, they took up their abode in Mrs. Peabody's apartment, and Peabody at once objected to the presence of any of her former husband's photographs. Once, it was alleged, he smashed a photograph of one of his own children, believing it to be that of his wife's child.

It was charged that Peabody indulged to excess in intoxicating liquor and had insisted upon his wife drinking as much as he did, and also upon her smoking cigarettes. She asserted that he told improper stories in the presence of others which humiliated her and embarrassed her by tales of former conquests of the heart.

Senate Social Bloc To Aid Newberry, Charged by Kenyon

Iowan Insists Entire Election of Michigan Man Was Tainted; Reed Assails Both Candidates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Use of social influence to bring about a vote favorable to Truman H. Newberry in the Michigan Senatorial election contest of 1918 was charged in the Senate to-day by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, in an extended discussion of the contest, during which he declared that the entire election in which Mr. Newberry was chosen over Henry Ford, the Democratic candidate, was "tainted."

The Iowa Senator, who is one of the leaders of the agricultural bloc, declared that of all blocs the "social bloc" was the most powerful.

"The social lobby," he asserted, "has been active in this case—more active than in most matters—and the social lobby is effective."

Senator Kenyon said he was convinced that the Senate, when it voted on the election contest early next month, would declare Senator Newberry elected, but he added, the vote "will not be the last of the Newberry case."

"The day is coming," he continued, "when it will be heard in another court—the court of the great American people. It will be a trial that will be worth while, because the American people, even from the gallery, the question, will decide right. They will know the record, even if many Senators do not."

The Iowa Senator said he could understand how Senators would vote for retention by Mr. Newberry of the Michigan seat on the ground of friendship, but could not see how votes would be cast to seat Mr. Newberry on the theory that he had no knowledge of his campaign expenditures.

"The cold fact is," he continued, "that this seat in the Senate was bought, and the price was not a penny less than $250,000. And I want to add that if this sale of a seat is allowed to stand the rule of the people is gone, and gone beyond recall."

During Mr. Kenyon's attack on the Newberry campaign, loud applause came from one of the public galleries. Two husky doorkeepers rushed to the scene and a woman visitor was quickly removed from the gallery.

Senator Reed and Senator Borah frequently interrupted Mr. Kenyon's discussion. Mr. Reed once expressing the opinion that the Senate should question "the mental competency of a man to occupy a seat in this body who does not know that such large sums of money were spent in his behalf."

Speaking a moment later with respect to Mr. Ford, Senator Reed declared that if the Detroit manufacturer "were running on mental equipment, his nomination would not have been thought of by a second-rate idiot."

Mrs. Peabody, Wed Less Than Year, Gets Divorce

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
RENO, Nev., Dec. 21.—Declaring that her husband boasted of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Vernon Marguerite Peabody was given a divorce to-day from Rushion B. Peabody, to whom she was married in New York on January 1, 1920, after a six weeks' courtship.

Mrs. Peabody, who was the widow of C. P. Stiens, millionaire contractor and builder of the Chinese-Siberian Railroad, told the court